

Formulary Updates Effective January 1, 2022

Dear Valued Member,

The purpose of this communication is to provide you with updated drug formulary information for 2022 under your prescription drug benefit. HometownRx strives to provide quality and cost-effective prescription benefits to you and your family.

You have been identified as filling one or more of the medications below that will experience a change in copayment or coverage in 2022. You may want to contact your doctor to see if there is another medication on the formulary that will work for your condition.

You should always consult your physician before changing your treatment for any illness; and only you and your doctor can decide which medication(s) are right for you. At your next appointment, or before your next refill, please ask your doctor about alternatives.

Please note: Not all drugs listed may be covered under your prescription drug benefit. Certain drugs may have specific restrictions or special copay requirements depending on your plan. The formulary alternatives listed are examples of selected alternatives that are on the formulary. Other alternatives may be available. Members on a medication that will no longer be covered may want to talk to their healthcare providers about other options. Medications that do not have alternatives will be available at 100% member coinsurance.
